

Abinoam Fragrances are inspired by "the eternal inner-struggle between darkness and light." A family of five unisex perfumes, they all are tied together by the use of notes that have been historically described as aphrodisiacs. Our own Katie O'Neal loves Abinoam's Cobice Eau de Parfum, composed of notes of apple, bamboo flower, orange flower, floral and leather, with accords of patchouli. Of this scent, she wrote in her blog (see www.magazineblu.com), "I smell so damn good that I can't concentrate. I'm going to have to go wash it off in order to get anything accomplished today!" Abinoam is available at Henri Bendel on Fifth Avenue in NYC, Searle NYC and varied stores coast-to-coast, as well as online at www.abinoam.com.

